AMERICAN AND FOREIGN OFFICE,
And Agency of the U S Patent Office, Washington
28 State Street—Boston.

THE subscriber, by appointment from the Commissioner of Patents, is Agent of the U S Patent Office for the purpose of receiving and forwarding to the same all such models, specimens of ingredients, and manufactures as shall be intended to be patented, or deposited therein, which will be received and forwarded, free of expense and risk, to their owners and with all possible despatch. The subscriber will prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings, will make researches into American and Foreign works, for establishing the validity or ability of inventions, and render advice on all legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe and other countries.

By application at this office, inventors are saved the time and expense of a journey to Washington and delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. The experience of fifteen years practice—an extensive collection of rare works documents, decisions, &c in mechanical subjects and the Patent Laws—and patents of different countries, collected at much expense during the long time this office has been established, and to which daily additions are being made, together with accounts kept of inventions patented at Washington, enable me to afford important assistance and information to inventors desirous of securing Patents which in other respects, may be difficult of attainment.

Kirkbride's Tattersall's HEAVE POWDERS:

A SAFE SPEEDY AND CERTAIN REMEDY for Horses Broken Wind, Chronic Cough & Colds and all diseases which depend upon inflammation of the mucous membranes in the lungs, throat or head. Give them a trial, and if they do not

Soundness of the Animal's Wind,

This seems to be what has been used with such remarkable success in England, is now offered to Horse owners in the United States as a positive specific for those insidious and distressing complaints. From the combination of powerful vegetable ingredients of which it is composed, it is believed to combine successfully with, expand in the lungs, expectoration of the Horse, and at the same time, is warranted to be perfectly safe and genial, to cause speedily the fat and other cattle, and does not at all incommode them in coughing, or after high from usual labor. The following is one amongst many proofs we have of its efficacy, as it is from one of the best Farmers in New York, and Gentleman whose knowledge in the medical treatment of Horses is very extensive

New York, Nov. 1 1847

Messrs A. H. Gough & Co:

Gentlemen—You will recollect that I bought a package of your Heave Powders some time ago to administer to a valuable horse in livery in my stable, and that I was quite dubious of the wisdom of expending so much for such a bad case as his was said to be, in fact believe there were any medicines better for his accompliment than those I had been in the habit of using for many extensive practice with Horses. But justice to you and your valuable remedy, requires me to say, that that single package cured the animal of his aggravated case of Heaves as I never saw and his wind is now perfectly good. I believe its cure is a permanent one.

Respectfully, &c FLOYD, 104 Laurens-st.

Messrs A H Gough & Co—Gents I bought, about six weeks ago, a package of Heave Powders to administer to a favorite horse, who had been troubled with heaves for more than two years. His case was a very bad one, and so severe as to incapacitate him from half his usual labor, and had resisted all the remedies ordinarily under the direction then had without but slightly diminish the violence of the heaving while taking the medicine but that package of your remedy has completely eradicated the disease, and now his wind is as good as ever it was. It is a month since he has taken the Powders, and I can warrant him sound.

Respectfully, &c GEO W DAVIS.

GREAT CONDITION MEDICINE.

Besides their specific action upon diseases of the lungs and windpipe, the Universal's Horse Powders, from their great alterative and absorbent properties, are an effectual in disease as sarsaparilla proves to be in the human race for the removal of impurities of the blood and predisposition to disease. Many a case of founder has been prevented and cured by the timely use of the Horse Powders, which thrown into the food that is given to the heated animal relieves him at once, and renders a recital only the use of 1 or 2 doses. As a conditioner medicine they are unequalled, especially when a rough hide, starred coat, loss of appetite, are denotes of disorder in the system, for in these instances no help and means in the alimentary canal, as described in the following certificate.

Messrs A. H. Gough & Co—Dear Sirs—Perhaps of your Horse Powders I have made use of only for the horse's cough has entirely ceased him, but in a different way than I anticipated. The first time of the application of it that I found the cough ceased, and I further found that the use of your Powders had a tendency to relieve the horse of worms from him, and I believe there were all the cause of the cough, which was, which he exhibited, for the purpose had perfectly cured him, has ceased to cough, and is in fine health and condition. Yours truly, &c

Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla and Dock.

THE articles above named are the principal ingredients of this medicine. With these is combined vegetable origin are combined designed to render them more active and consequently more immediately effective.

The Dock, or rather a species of it, now ranks as an edicinal plant second to no one of the vegetable kingdom. With the aid of a distinguished chemist whom the proprietor has consulted in the preparation of the compound he has succeeded in overcoming the difficulty of preserving the extract of the root for any considerable length of time.

For many years the proprietor has tested in his practice the efficacy of the principal substances of this compound and is perfectly satisfied that they possess all the properties which have been ascribed to them. Recently he came into the idea of uniting them, which has resulted in the production of the compound. In this the ingredients are found to act in concert and no loss none of the qualities which the separately possess.

A larger portion of Sarsaparilla is soluble than has generally been supposed. The extract ought to be relied on and least liable to decomposition is procured by subjecting the root to the action of the menstrum usually employed in extracting its virtues for long time without heat by any other accelerating agency. None is permitted to be used in the compound that will in the least degree impair its medicinal action.

The Compound is recommended for Scrofula, Erysipelas, Cutaneous affections, Eruptions and Mercurial diseases. Also for the numerous maladies arising from sedentary employments, occupation of a harassing and fatiguing nature, intemperance, exposures to extremes of heat and cold, overtaking the physical powers and other abuses of the constitution; among which are Nervousness, Fits, Affection of the River Bilious Complaint and Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

In diseases of warm climates with which the proprietor became familiar in his practice in Havana some years since, the compound will prove particularly efficacious, both as a remedy and a preventative.

This medicine has been for some time in use in this city, where the proprietor has passed nearly half a century of his professional life. It was extensively prescribed by him while in practice, and is now believed to be in favor with his medical brethren in general, to whom he is known.

Prepared only by Dr Stephen Cummings and sold at wholesale and retail by Joshua Burgess & Co No 13 Middle street and Howard Mason, No 156 Middle street—only agents for Portland.

They embrace the views of the three great parties in England—Tory, Whig and Radical—Blackwood and the 'London Quarterly' are Tory, the 'Edinburgh Review' Whig, and the Westminster Review' Radical. The North British Review is more of a religious character, having been originally edited by Dr Chalmers, and now, since his death, being conducted by his son in law, Dr Hanna associated with Sir David Brewster. Matters for Earnest Thought.

The New York Express gives the following picture of the condition of a large portion, and which we have been brought to consider the most elevated portion of the Christian world, regarding the colossal crime of war This lofty review of the matter suggests a world of sober, earnest thought and should be deeply pondered by every elevated and christian man throughout our country and the world. The present generation of men are recording a tearful page of history which will startle and agonize their descendants —

For years past, it has been a favorite idea of many enlightened minds both here and in Europe, that, in view of the wonderful advances Christendom, during the last quarter of a century, has been making in political economy, the arts and sciences, and in fact, everything that tends to elevate our kind, it was to absurdity to imagine that wars of any magnitude would ever again be resorted, to desolate and lay waste the world. Moralists and Philosophers, pointing to the embattled plains of Belgium, in the glad exultation of their hearts, told us that Waterloo was the last scene in the drama of blood the nations have been enacting ever since there were crowns to be worn, kingdoms to be conquered, or a refractory people to be coerced — And when the curtain fell upon the stupendous tragedy which these met its denouement, the mighty millenium, of events and art, blending with the liberalizing influences of peace had themselves but more severely, though that terrible embodiment of their Revolution Napoleon Bonaparte, taught the banded monarchies of Europe, not soon to be forgotten, would thence forward endear princes and potentates to liberalize their sway, and thus do away with the necessity for the further spilling of blood. They, too, who flattered themselves that the people in Europe would now silently work out their own redemption, merely by "moral sua on," scouted the idea that the sword would ever again, at least in our day, be unsheathed to do its work of death How vain do all these fond dreams appear now! as we cast an eye over both hemispheres, and survey the momentous and bloody events transpiring in republics as well as in monarchies

It was but about three weeks ago that we received tidings of the horrible massacre, in Venezuela, of members of the Republican Congress and last accounts thence have prepared us to hear that the contending parties have bathed the capital in blood

All Central America is in a state of political effervescence, which gives no fair promise of settling quietly down into tranquility, while British power continues its machinations with the "Mosquito King Buenos Ayres and Montevideo seem mutually determined to show an example of perpetual belligerency and bitter contention, without having any particular object in view, as it seems to us And in North America, nearer home, we grieve to see ourselves engaged in a bloody contest with the miserable and distracted progeny of Old Spain,—entered into likewise, without any clearly defined object, waged, in the ambiguous avowal of demagogues at "secure indemnity for the past and security for the future " We who, as a people, are contented and happy,—we who possess to the fullest extent all the blessings a free government is competent to confer,—we who have no wrongs to redress, ought surely have shown the rest of the world that our liberal institutions went hand in hand with Christianity and humanity, and governed our relations with our neighbors. We can only regret now that it is not so Canada is not contented affairs there are commonly quiet, at present, but under the smooth surface of external things the seeds of rebellion may be taking root France is in the very zenith of revolutionary disorder,—may even now be steeped in the blood and carnage of civil war Spain, the poor victim of governmental rapacity, is a ready prey for the first conqueror that claims her Brother is in arms against brother, faction against faction, and the land seems at length to have reached the lowest pitch of national degradation Italy and Rome are all on fire—Germany sleeps on a volcano—and the people of Austria and Prussia are but awaiting that kingly "extremity" which gives them an opportunity to join the ranks of republicanism Russia, happy in her barbarism, contemplates the prospect before her with no evidences of alarm; but we doubt not our Czar sack lamp is firmly clutched for ensuring her from any quarter Britain is full of discontent, and the least relaxation of ministerial vigilance might imperil the integrity of her present political system Ireland is to the full game with starvation to take any primary position upon the stag, but she is as ready now as ever to become the instrument of some of her more powerful friends the moment she is required

Such is the fearful picture Europe and America at this period present Peace seems to have fled the world, to afford the Demon of Discord "ample room and verge enough" to exercise his sway.

☞ A felony by the name of Warren has been committed in jail in Norridgewock, for exhibiting several indelicate pictures of a drawing school in Gardiner Reid.

The New French Provisional Government.

The following sketch of the characters composing the revolutionary committee, or Ministry of the French Government, which we copy from the London Morning Chronicle, will be read with interest at the present time In addition to the information it so graphically gives of the opinions of these men, it also shows the opinion of the Chronicle of the results of the revolution

"Of the provisional government which has been formed in Paris, it is impossible to speak seriously It is not so ludicrous, certainly, as the improvised by the adventurer in 1830, who, with a uniform borrowed from the Opera Comique, and epaulettes taken him by Perlet, the actor, established a communeat in the Hotel de Ville, issued his orders from thence, and (nominated General Debourg by the acclamations of the populace) continued more than any body else governed Paris for days. But of the names composing the new committee we shall probably hear not much more eventually than we have heard of M M Sobrier and Andry du Pavraveau, the great men of July. The new arrangement is only remarkable because it seems for the moment, to have provided over the favourite plan of M Thiers—a female Regent, with herself as Premier

But it is impossible that the intelligence and industry of France should consent for any time, to be confiscated by such men as Odilon Barrot, who, in a more energetic period of his life proved himself equally incompetent; by M Ledru Rollin, a pedantic demagogue; by M Armand Marrast, the editor of a second rate and failing newspaper, by M Arago, a man of scientific merit, who cannot string three words together in public, although he has long been called by his flatterers "the Consul Fleet of the Republic" by M Garnier Pages, who has no other reason than the reflective one of having had a remarkable brother, by Mr Marie whom nobody here or ever heard of; by M Louis, Blanc whose pamphlets would delight the Protectionists as he is all for Robespierre's "paternal commercial system" and whose theories are as transcendental as they are incorrect, or by M Lamartine, who, in the calm of his chapel published this programme of his policy which without professing to understand, we to produce —"the organic and progressive constitution of the entire democracy, the expansive principle of mutual charity and social fraternity, organized and applied to the satisfaction of the general interest"

The good sense of the middle class will soon, we do not doubt, put down the nonsense But it is impossible without great alarm and disquietude to consider the state of Europe at this moment and the effect which these things may produce in the demoralized provinces of Prussia and Austria in Poland, Switzerland, Lombardy and Southern Italy Not is it more of the revolutionary principle that we are afraid, than of the counter revolution The galvanic life which this shock must give to the Holy Alliance in desperate agonies, the extreme passions which it will provoke, the collisions which may take place the check to liberty, the impossibility of progress, another page opening in the dark catalogue of popular suffering and blind ambition—which does not for see, & fear, these not improbable results?—Happy are those public men, in our time whose consciences may assure them that they have done all within their power to avert hazards so calamitous and perils so universal If there be others who have openly instigated, or secretly encouraged a state of things so pregnant with evil—they are worse than their motives have been what they may) may yet throw convulsion back a century, in her onward and radiant career

Further from Paris.

We translate from the Commerce des Etats Unis of the morning, the following items of interest which are not contained in the English papers

PARIS, Friday, Feb 25, 1848

All danger has ceased The complete silence which reigned throughout toward midnight, on account of the barricades, which prevented the passage of all vehicles, appeared strange and unearthly The most profound calm existed through the night, broken only from time to time by the guns fire of an amateur sentinel, who wished to prove his vigilance The red banner has been everywhere unfurled in place of the tricolor

The Journals nearly all appear on a single half sheet, printed on one side only

A notice, signed by Ledru Rollin assigns the direction of the Fine Arts to the Minister of the Interior, and orders that the Jury of Exhibition be named by election

Col Dumoulin the old and de voted of the Empire has become the provisional Government assembled at the Hotel de Ville, surrounded by the people, armed and full of generous enthusiasm

Louis Blanc proclaimed the Republic, in the midst of tremendous applause Lamartine had already addressed the people in the great hall, and excited the most profound feeling

Ledru Rollin, who followed him, made, it is said, a most remarkable address

Gebs Bedeau and Lamoricere then advanced to offer their services The first was made commander of the first division of the military, and minister of war The second is making preparations to set out for the frontier.

The act of abdication signed by the King before leaving the Tuileries, is, it is said, exceedingly laconic, and comprised very nearly in these terms "I abdicate to the hands of the French people, on the head of my grand son, the crown which I received from the French Nation."

The Congregational Singing Book

We have received from Col David Bugbee a copy of a Singing Book with the above title, prepared by Asa Fitz, and designed to aid the plan of introducing music into religious congregations by all uniting in songs of praise without being dependent upon a special choir This work contains a good selection of tunes suited to the general taste of New England congregations but one is the worship of God—and if other than the simple melody of chanting is to be used for such purpose, probably there is nothing better than the tunes furnished in this book Something is evidently needed to make the public worship of God more personal in its character It has of late been degenerating, it is to be feared, into a mere show Almost any religious congregation supplied with this Singing book would be able to sustain congregational singing It is neat and comely book and will meet with the approbation of the christian public

Fire in Bristol.

We learn from the Bath Times that on the 17th inst, the large building known as the Bence Mill was destroyed by fire with nearly all its contents The building was four stories high, and was occupied for a saw mill, grist mill, shingle mill, and various other kinds of machinery The fire took (supposed from a stove) in the upper story, and it was in vain to try to save it The other buildings near (one a saw mill) within ten feet, were saved The loss was probably about $20,000, and falls principally upon Mr J Ann Bence who owned the mill, and upon Mr James Bence, who owned a part of the stock and machinery. No insurance.

Wrecking.

A friend at Machias, (Maine,) writes us the following information.

"Circumstances have transpired since the wreck of the British brig Margaret & Jane, near Moose river, in November last, (reported at the time,) showing that there are more "Marneguets" than those residing in New Jersey All the cargo supposed at the time to have been saved, was sold about the first of December.

Subsequently, about the first of January, the vigilance of Ebery Turner, Esq., Custom House officer at Cutler, a quantity of goods, consisting of Brussels carpeting, ready made clothing, &c., stolen from the wreck, were discovered secreted in the vicinity of Moose river which he took possession of, carried them to Machias where they were sold for the benefit of all concerned under the superintendence of C S Sherwood, Esq., H B M Vice Consul, the sale amounting to about $1600 Mr Turner has more recently discovered another small lot of clothing

It is understood that the whole subject was before the grand jury at their session in this county last week A large number of witnesses were summoned before them The result of their investigation has not yet been made known, but it is generally supposed that some bills have been found against several of the persons engaged in the "enterprise," as witnesses have been recognized to appear at the next term of the District Court, to be holden in this County in September next"

Louis Philippe.

There have been many inquiries with regard to the route taken by the late King of the French, in his flight from Paris Nothing definite, however was known when the steamer sailed. A morning paper says:

"The probability is that the king proceeded immediately to the Chateau d'Eue, which is situated on the French coast, in the department of the Seine Inferieure and where is constantly kept in readiness a yacht—the same he sent to England to take Queen Victoria to France The king would undoubtedly remain at the Chateau till he found it to be unsafe for him to remain. In that case, he would immediately leave in his yacht—probably for England."

We learn that the British Government, thro' Mr Elliot, the British Consul, in this city, has awarded £500 sterling to be distributed to the owners, master, and crew of the American bark Byron, Capt Read, of Stonington, Conn, and a gold medal to bring a portrait of the Queen to Capt n Read, for their humane exertions in rescuing eighteen British seamen, wrecked on the coast of Patagonia

Mr Elliott has also been directed by the British Government, to give £100 sterling, to the owners of the schr. Leander, of Boston, for rescuing and taking into port the crew of the British brig Lelia [Bost. Journal

A Startling Fact.

Gov Briggs at the temperance meeting in Faneuil Hall on Tuesday evening last, stated that the report of the Committee appointed to inquire in regard to the drunkenness in the Commonwealth, showed that there were from 1500 to 2000 of that unfortunate class, and also the astounding fact that from 1100 to 1200 of them were born of drunken parents!

How to Destroy Hawks.

Erect a pole, twelve or fifteen feet high, in a place where there will not be anything else near for them to light upon, and upon it set a common fox-trap, to which they will alight A strong rat-trap will answer the purpose, by tying it on the pole lengthwise, with the jaws raised above the end, the pole being a little leaning, so that the jaws will not fall together When one hawk is taken he, in on the ground near the pole, and its mate will be in the trap in a short time The season is near for hawks to reappear, and if farmers do not wish to have their chickens destroyed by them, they will do well to adopt the method of putting a stop to their depredations Printers in the United States by giving this an insertion, will circulate valuable information S. A Wish.

BY EVERPOINT

I wish I had—I do indeed—
Some little snug retreat,
A calm clime, sky above my head,
Green earth beneath my feet;
A little spot however small,
Where man might show his nature in
A honest, manly way.

I've got a wife—where all besides
In questioning and cold—
Whose lips have ne er reproaches breathed;
Whose eyes unkindness told;
And children, twain, whose accents sweet
To words I love to frame;
Blue less for that they loved the first
To name their mother's name.

I've got a friend—tho' distant now—
Who thinks as once he thought,
The change to manhood in his breast
No other change has wrought.
A noble heart! who still hath shared
Each change of grief and joy.
And by whose honest side I'd walk
Again a careless boy.

How much for happiness have I?
How priceless is my all!
How little, mixed with some the wealth
Which happ ness men call;
I am right and yet while them can say
To regret such "venture,"
The wealth I boast but worse me I
Am poor!—how very poor!

Oh, would him might yo sang to poesy
Lovely ever thou, O world,
If never pitfalls had been; if no er
The lip of charm had curl'd;
If—if—much portion of us all,"
And if the world but do
On earth as it is dead to heav'n—
There'd be much virtue too.

And yet, I wish sweet companionship;
That, still agitating mine,
The vanity I cannot love,
I ought not sing again;
A mountain path—a book—a tree—
Peace smiling at the door;
"The world forgetting—world forgot—"
But this—I am no more—

BY THE LAST MAIL.

Sentence of Dist. Valorus P. Coolidge.

After the closing proceedings of the court on Friday morning, the sentence was pronounced by the chief Justice. The prisoner was directed to be standing, and Judge Wilkins then addressed him as follows:

VALORUS P. COOLIDGE: You have been indicted for the crime of murder, and have been put upon your trial for that offence, and have been defended by eminent counsel who have done all that could be expected from human effort and ingenuity in your behalf, yet a jury believed to have been as impartial as the lot of humanity would admit of, after a patient and lengthy investigation, have pronounced against you a verdict of GUILTY, and the court are not aware of any reason why they should not have so done. We must therefore pass your guilt to be legally established. A duty therefore devolves upon us to award against you the sentence which the law has prescribed

We have understood that you have been duly admitted a member of one of the learned professions, that for a few years you have been a practising physician, and in that profession that you have been successful beyond what has often fallen to the lot of men of your age. That the charges upon your book have, in the space of about four years, amounted to the sum of $6000.

We have understood further that you are unencumbered with a family to support, and so far as appears, could not have been under any pressing necessity to become indebted for borrowing money to any considerable amount; yet at the time of the fatal catastrophe you had in the course of three or four years become so indebted nearly to the amount or quite $3000, and still pressing or further large loans; and we cannot see reason to doubt that on the evening of the 30th September last you had made arrangements with EDWARD MATHEWS, the deceased, whereby he was to procure for you a considerable sum of money, and for the purpose of furnishing you with it, and taking security therefor, he had entered your office not many moments before the fatal deed was done! We are constrained to believe it was done to afford you an opportunity to rifle him of whatever of value you could find upon his person How inadequate the temptation! How awful the deed! And how astonishing it is, that you, with the flattering prospects before you, should have perpetrated it! It is a case unparalleled in the history of crime! and affords us a woful instance of the frailty of human nature.

But our station in reference to those thus convicted is considered as easy. You are not to be hurried at once from time into Eternity. You cannot be executed short of a year from this time! and that space it may be hoped will be devoted to the contemplation of your forlorn condition And may contrition and sincere repentance make you a fit subject for the mercy of an offended God, and render it consistent with His eternal goodness, at last to admit you to the society of just men made perfect.

The sentence we are compelled to pronounce is:—

That you be hanged by the neck until you be dead, and for this purpose that you be conveyed to the State Prison, situate in the County of Lincoln And until this sentence of death shall be inflicted upon you, that you there be put to hard labor in solitary confinement.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, March 24.

In the Senate—A messenger was received from the house returning the Deficiency Bill with amendments

Mr Atherton moved that the Senate concur. It was agreed to

Mr Johnson, of La, moved to take up the bill relating to granting a pension to Patrick Walker, which motion was agreed to.

Mr Davis spoke in strong terms of opposition to giving more than the usual pension

Mr Johnson advocated the passage of the bill, explaining it as an extraordinary case He had cut both arms, and cannot even eat without aid, and was even obliged to employ a servant.

Mr Hannegan and Mr Phelps spoke briefly in support of the bill The bill was then read a third time and passed Yeas 25, nays 9

On motion the Senate laid aside the morning business and proceeded to the order of the day.

Mr Atherton offered an amendment to the bill which was agreed to, prohibiting the withdrawal of any bill, after it was once received

Mr Niles offered an amendment to the bill requiring vessels to state the names of the crew, &c. The bill was then laid on the table, and various bills considered

The Senate rose, reported progress, and Mr. Hannegan moved the Senate go into Executive Session, which motion was agreed to. After which the Senate adjourned until Monday

In the House—

Mr Rockwell of Conn called for the regular order of business. The House accordingly resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole on private bills After some time spent therein the Committee rose and reported, Mr Bowlin being Chairman

JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT.

This medicine has already proved itself to be all that it has been recommended, by those who have given it a fair test in this country, and the demand for it increases daily. We have just heard of an important case of Asthma, which has been effected by the use of but a few bottles in town—the case was that of a female who had for a long time been under the care of a physician but had received no relief, and her case was considered hopeless. And last year also mentioned a case of Dr. Jayne's Expectorant, which caused her to expectorate freely, gradually raised her cough, and in quickly restoring her to health. We have no hesitation in saying that this preparation of Dr. Jayne for cure of coughs, colds, influenza, asthma, consumption, &c., is the most valuable medicine ever offered to the American public. There is no pretence about it—Dr. Jayne is one of the most talented practising physicians in Pennsylvania; and whenever his various preparations have been thoroughly tested, he is ranked upon an equal public benefactor. Permanent Cure of Dyspepsia and habitual Costiveness.

To Dr Ralph

DEAR SIR—I have, myself, almost no occasion for your inestimable Pills. I have used them my self for years, as occasion dictated; and I have reason to suppose they have wrought a thorough and permanent change in respect to the functions of the stomach From habitual costiveness, and the vending of morpeens and slops as do, I am completely relieved. The multitudinous symptoms of Dyspepsia, with which I was once too well acquainted, have so entirely planed away, that I hardly know whether were Any one you can make of this, or a more full development of my case, is at your service
Except in an obstetric case your book (Family Physician) and Pills have been the only physicians in my house for six years
There are many of my friends around, and more and more, who call for your Pills as a family medicine, and for obvious cause. Yours truly,

Simply because the disease not reached by the proper remedy, but treats the more vigorous diseases of a Pulmonary nature like this on the principles of experience and the most authentic testimony On this ground is the only true, the only safe
